THE New York World says: "It might be a good idea, from a political point of view, for President Cleveland to call the new Congress together on the 4th of March next." Oh, no! It would have been an excellent idea for him to have called the present Congress together on the 5th of March, 1893, but it would be an exceedingly bad idea for him to call the new one together on the 4th of next March. The evil day should be postponed as long as possible.

THE New York Herald says "the country must have free coal." All right, and it should have it. But certainly not until the manufactures made by the consumption of coal are also free. No fair minded man, and especially no fair minded Virginian, wants every cent of protection removed from the coal mines of his own State, while a fifty per cent. protective duty remains upon New England products, made by burning that coal; and it won't be either.

THE FORTY thousand negro men of New York, who voted the republican ticket there unanimously week before last, and swelled the republican majority to that extent, are now clamoring for on that part of the road referred to be their full share of offices. killer." It the Southern people objected to anything their Northern haters have said or do say of them, they would be gratified at this, as it deposes them from the eminence to which the same newspapers had previously elevated them. But they don't; they have only smiles for those who hate them.

THE New York Press says "there is no man the democrats dread more than Senator Chandler." The Press was never more mistaken in all its life. There is no republican the democrats would rather have in the Senate than Mr. Chandler. His pronounced enmity does them good; they relish and enjoy it, and hope it may grow. And then, too, it is entirely innoxious.

The secretary reported a number of ordinations for deacons. Just before adjournment the bishop made a breezy talk on the hiect of attempting to influence the bishop and the presiding elders in the matter of appointments. He had had a multitude of counsellors who wanted to help him fix things, but there was no wisdom in them. The law gave no wisdom in them. The law gave him a body of men to help him do this. They were his presiding elders. He would not make an appointment, were it suggested by a man in the rags of Lazarus or the purple of Herod, without first consulting his advisers. The bishop plainly indicated the futility of the importunity of clergy and laymen in trying to influence him. He said they were looking after the interest of one man or one church, but he was looking after 200 men or 500 churches.
